"Only You"

Walk the way your mother taught you to Put your spurs on when you go outside Trust in god but don't forget you lied
At your first confession

Beware the hides that hang upon your wall Take the time to catch up on the news Catch the wind, don't wait for him to call This was your first concession

you alone in your parade
you alone in your parade
you alone in your parade
only you

Curse the bone that grows within your hand He'll pluck your heart and pop it in his mouth Don't watch for signs you'll never understand
This is his obsession

Black and blue he paints your canvas red Then takes you out and buys you something nice Afterwards he'll tie you down in bed
This is his oppression

you alone in your parade
you alone in your parade
you alone in your parade
only you
