"I'll see your shape and I'm attracted
I touch your neck and I'm tempted
I feel the spirit that lies within
When I hold you in my hands

This is the heart you've settled upon
And these are the arms you'll be cradled on Those are the feet that dance to your tune
And this is the soul that will keep you

People have carved you and generations mould you
Time has carried you, tradition behold you
What time has taken passion has kept
What my heart has felt the music has sent

Through your voice I hear your stories
And in these hands they become my own
And the old times and old memories
Called to life beneath my bow

I see your shape and I'm attracted
I touch your neck and I'm tempted
I feel the spirit that lies within
When I hold you in my hands
