You never seen nobody as divine as
She can see reflections in her own eyes
An admission of desire
On a handsome afternoon

Is an ovation to her ego
In her everyone is everything and
Everything is mine

Ms. Marceau
You don't need another
You'll always be your own hero

Myself Ms. Marceau
You don't need another
You'll always be your own hero

It's as if we're speaking in another language
Every word means I, me mine
Every hello every good bye
No escape to the life of the average

It's an ovation to my ego
In her everyone is everything and
Everything is mine

Myself Ms. Marceau
You don't need another
You'll always be your own hero, yeah

We are very fortunate to have her here
Accounts are empty and my friends
Deserted long ago, but
She says that I'm okay, so I'm okay

Myself Ms. Marceau
You don't need another
You'll always be your own hero
Yeah yeah yeah yeah yeah

Myself Ms. Marceau
You don't need another

You'll always be your own hero
Yeah yeah yeah yeah yeah
Yeah yeah yeah

Myself, myself
In her everyone is everything
Myself, myself
And in her everyone is everything

Myself, myself
In her everyone is everything
Myself, myself
In her everyone is everything

Myself, myself
In her everyone is everything and everything is mine
Myself, myself
In her everyone is everything and everything is Everything is and everything is mine
Myself, myself
