Too many times Iâve turned away
From the secret place where I first met You
My first love in You
Fears of never returning to You Lord
But these arms belong to You
So secure in You

Iâm bringing my heart once more
Away from what was apart from You
So far from You
The path I chose before was one
So alone and lost but now I can run to You
All because of You

And all I want is to know You more
And all I want is to trust You more
And all I want is to love You more
Again

Help me see it was all for me that you bled on the tree
To set me free so I can be here with You
In the temple the curtain was torn in two
So take me past the outer courts to You
Closer to You
