As we're lining up for a golden night
I will follow you around until the stars hang by
And I know we can't save the stuff alone
From the dark clouds moving on in that we're gazing upon

And the dreams we have within the light of dawn
Freeze our grasses green until the winter's gone
And the smoke melts away the drown of fears
While the sun is the golden hand holding everything
dear

The snow enter pain when you've lost your will We're never the same as we cross these hills
Over broken land when we drink our fill
For the secrets we keep into the DEEP

Well our hearts will fall heavy the OLDER WE BECOME
And the time forgets us and the things we've done
As our days become a flash of a distance SPARK
To the night as we carry the FLAME further into the dark

And all of the weight that holds us down
Keeping the shackle to the ground
If beauty is broken we are bound
By the shadows of grief further into the deep

And all of the echoes from THE past
Are finding a way to make it last
Just LONG enough to ease our past
But on tonight as we sleep wander into the deep
