if I can walk 1000 miles a day id try to do it cos I don't know if u really say I think I saw the sky tonight pushing through it feels alright and I just don't know who I want to be and every time I see your face I laugh out loud acting hot your fitting in with all the crowd and if I could I'd stop the time and ask you for a clever line and just because I know you won't give it to me its raining hard again here now that'll never change
lets start a war
so who's to blame
when it ends it starts to rain down at times I think that all I need is summer sun burning in my eyes and breaking through the trees at times I feel my place is empty it looks as though I never met me but my smile does only show one side of me and I can show you a little slice of everyone laughing in the dark I think your having fun the sunlight in your face that time washes away all the grime makes me forget just how much I hate you tonight

its raining hard again here now
that'll never change
when it ands it starts to rain down yeah yeah yeah...
when it starts to rain
starts to rain
starts to rain
starts to rain
starts to rain down now
