With all her talk of all the others
When it shadows everything
And I can't think
About her silence and her rings
I see no place to pin my thought
And where's what's true between the lines
And in her eyes
I see nothing not a sign
And I'm untied
I can't unwind
Your valentines
And I'm untied
I can't unwind
Your valentines
Sunday morning comes too soon
To leave me standing in my light
And there's no time
To set it straight or take a side
And I'm untied
I can't unwind
Your valentines

And I'm untied

I can't unwind

Your valentines

I see no place to pin my thoughts

And where's what's true between the lines

And in her eyes

I see nothing not a sign

And I'm untied

I can't unwind

Your valentines

And I'm untied

I can't unwind

Your valentines
