It could be here, it could be now
'Cause every time is special ride
But can't you see, that game you play
Is getting old

You've been there, been there before
Just while your conscience begs for more
But you'll be left, be left alone
With your own ways

You're still wondering now
Because everything here's just so damn hard
To understand this time,
There you go you keep wandering
Searching for some plan to get your way,
You're still wondering now
Because everything here's just so damn hard
To understand this time,
There you go you keep wandering
Searching for all the shit you can find

It can't be clear, it can't be right
What point is there to make if I
Am meant to see what good I miss
I'll let it go

You've been there, been there before
Just while your conscience begs for more,
With your own ways

You're still wondering now
Because everything here's just so damn hard
To understand this time,
There you go you keep wandering
Searching for some plan to get your way,
You're still wondering now
Because everything here's just so damn hard
To understand this time,
There you go you keep wandering
Searching for all the shit you can find
