

Nicky Hopkins

"Every Loser Wins"

Visit "Every Loser Wins" on MotoLyrics.com

We nearly made it
We nearly found the perfect combination
The road was right, we must have read the signs wrong
And now it's all gone

But if we'd made it
Could we be sure that it was for the better
Who could say we would have stayed together
Nothing is certain
In a changing world

Every loser wins
Once the dream begins
In time you'll see, fate holds the key
And every loser knows
The light the tunnel shows
Will shine on you
And all those who knew
That we could make it

But suddenly we seemed to stop and lose our way
But did it really matter anyway
For that was yesterday
And we must live for now

Cos every loser wins
Once the dream begins
In time you'll see, fate holds the key
And every loser knows
The light the tunnel shows
Will shine on you
And all those who knew
That we could make it

Stand up and count me
I know your on my side
shine down on me
And those who believe
That we could make it

