Tell you the same thing that they told me
Worth your weight in gold
Should I practice what I preach man?
Should I just do what I'm told?
Because the clock keeps ticking
Let's hope we don't grow old

Tell them the same thing that you told me
Are you worth your weight in gold?
Should I practice what I preach man?
Or should I just do what I'm told?

A high court jury
Would you scream guilty?
I'd never claim somebody used me
I used to be so filthy

And are you happy when they tell you
Should it worry you at all?
Does it help you when they preach man?
Does it mend your broken bones?

You know they say that I'm a lightweight
Well, the worry weighs a ton
If you make it to the top don't come and save me
'Cause I'll be at the bottom having fun

With a little bit of shock, shock horror
A limp jumped body on the floor
A fucked up old school friend
And a kicked down door

And the boy can sing
And the boy can dance
He misplaced a whole week man
Left out the romance

I believe love, yeah
Not what you've bought or sold
I'm not a rat, this life it shouldn't be a race man
Do you really make the money then grow old?

Don't even accuse me
'Cause I'll go on the run
But I suppose it'd be easy where to find me
'Cause I'll be at the bottom having fun

With a little bit of shock, shock horror
A limp jumped body on the floor
A fucked up old school friend
And a kicked down door

And the boy can sing
The boy can dance
He misplaced a whole week man

And I feel sorry for you man
I feel sorry for you man
I feel sorry for you man
You've forgotten how to clap your hands

I feel sorry for you man
I feel sorry for you man
I feel sorry for you man
You've forgotten how to clap your hands

I feel sorry for you man
I feel sorry for you man
I feel sorry for you man
You've forgotten how to clap your hands

I feel sorry for you man
Sorry for you man
I feel sorry for you man
You've forgotten how to clap your hands

I feel sorry for you man
I feel sorry for you man
I feel sorry for you man
You've forgotten how to clap your hands

Tell them the same thing that they told me
