There was a man called Thorvald who was the father of Erik the Red/ He and Erik left their home in Jaedern, in Norway,/ because of some killings and went to Iceland,/ which had been extensively settled by then/ Erik married Thjodhild and moved south to make his home at Erikstead,/ near Vatnhorn/ They had a son called Leif// He was our leader/ He took us to conquest/ He said// Folk, Skal vi gÃfÃ¥, kom med meg, folk, fÃfÃ,lg meg og slÃfÃ¥ alle og slÃfÃ¥/ Vi er kraften, ni skal tro, vi er vikingene og menn av nord/ Dra ut hornene og slÃfÃ¥ og tenk at ingen aldri stopper oss!!! Erik's wife didn't want to sleep with this heathen man, but he respected her// Folk... og tenk at han var en hedensk man
