So much time has passed but I still remember you/ It's like you are here and I can feel you breathing/ I remember your eyes, blue as bright as dew/ And you looked at me as you wanted to say:// My sister, my sister/ I want to play with you/ don't you want it, too?// Now in Valhalla you are sitting by the Gods/ You were my kitten and now you're serving Freyja/ You drag her coach and you keep this dream alive/ And you are in my nightmares as you wanted to say:// My sister, my sister/ I want to play with you / don't you want it, too?/ My sister, you are my sister/ I want to meet your look again/ don't you want it, too?// Your life was short/ but you had your time to live/ and I lived with you/ Then my heart was broken/ death pulled you away from me/ and I could only cry/ I could only cry// Freyja's cat now lives in an other world/ but when he was here he played like an earthly cat/ he scratched the trees and his claws caressed my face/ and he listened to me when I played the flute// Time can't stop and it can't start again/ and you'll never come back home/ you must be where you are/ You live where the warriors live and the glory is for you/ and you'll wait, I will die/ you'll wait, I will die
