The first colours of the dawn
The first drops of dew
Petals open looking for the Sun
Your child's eyes open looking for you

Everything happens tomorrow
By tomorrow is not so far
Everything happens tomorrow
And tomorrow is here now, here now

We're morning stars
We're morning stars
Resist the whole night
And bring back the day

Breathe the air of clear immensity
That we conquered during the dark
Chase away the clouds
And give a sky where our kids can play

Everything happens tomorrow
By tomorrow is not so far
Everything happens tomorrow
And tomorrow is here now, here now

We're morning stars
We're morning stars
Resist the whole night
And bring back the day

Pure is the water where you can wash your sorrow
It is strong and true like honour
Metallic like a mirror where Ironclad hearts see their souls reflected

From above in the sky
Everything happens tomorrow
And tomorrow is here now, here now

We're morning stars
We're morning stars
Resist the whole night

And bring back the day
