When I wake up, my GOD my head is sore
And on my left, the girl next door
It's not the first time for sure
When you wake up, I'm half-way through your door
You've done me good, like before
Just give me a call to ignore

But I'm dying for your love girl, and I hope you feel the same
You're the sunshine after sundown, you're the one
who'll ease the pain
I'm sorry, have to go
P.S. I love you... NOT!

I'd ask you out, just to turn you down
And stick around, stick around
And watch you fall through the ground
When you're alone, when you're on your own
I hear you moan, through the phone
I'm not the best guy you've known

But I'm dying for your love girl, and I hope you feel the same
You're the sunshine after sundown, you're the one
who'll ease the pain
I'm sorry, have to go
P.S. I love you... NOT!

(Better if I leave)
But it's better if I leave you, and I guess you feel the same (Doing what I have)
I'm just doing what I have to, 'cause love is not my game
(I am leaving you)
And I'm leaving in the morning, never liked you anyway
