She wouldn't mind one
Days rest to lose some pounds
To have the choice to buy her friends a round

Halfway up in the lift
To slide down from the top
Just trying to suit me
They just try to use you

Remorse for all the clothes she's yet to buy
But never use
Stuffed to burst with Hunger, thirst and all these needs
Just trying to suit me
They just try to use you.

Stay tuned, get back to desk
A symbol of success, an index of care-less
A well-paid job a trip to France
Focus on the screen and don't ever forget
It's just a daydream

(Bigger cars, louder speakers, newer cell-phones, a metallic chromed blender, exclusive hairdo, brighter teeth, sweeter chocolate, one size down, living central, lot's of friends and never going home alone)

We can always buy us out, We can always buy us out
We can always buy us out, We can always buy us out

Halfway up in the lift
To slide down from the top
Just trying to suit me
They just try to use you.

Stay tuned, get back to desk (sustain the business)
A symbol of success, an index of care-less (sustain their busyness)
Make sure everyone's impressed.
A well-paid job, a trip to France
Focus on the screen it's just a daydream

No it doesn't stop with her
We're not yet stuffed, we still want more
Can eat us through it all
No It doesn't stop with her
No It doesn't stop with her

Stay tuned, get back to desk (sustain the business)
A symbol of success, an index of care-less (sustain
their busyness)
Make sure everyone's impressed.
A well-paid job, a trip to France
Focus on the screen it's just a dream
