a thousand angry angels in this house for when the wall came down we weren't allowed to know too much, but nobody wanted to touch the unknown (cause there were) a thousand angry angels in our town for when this wall crashed down oh, we were allowed to see too much, but nobody dared to taste the unknown and time, time is still on our side even though we hide in disguise I hear there's still time, time, time, well it's still on our side even though we, we hide in disguise

and if we should part then I'd be like a lock refusing to sing
though I stay in the spring I lose these old shoes while finding my feet in the unknown

and if we should part
but we'll stay in the spring we might lose these old boots while finding our feet in the unknown in the unknown
I lost myself in the unknown cause we die alone

by ourself in the unknown
