PERFECT ENOUGH

(Words and music by Nomi Yah)

Your child gets tall while you are busy
Think of it isn't it really a shame
If you miss it all, childhood is brief
Picture books and loose teeth and that Little League game
Man, relax

Life is perfect enough, perfect enough
Lord, it could be better, sometimes it's rough
But today is perfect enough

Your Jaguar's fast but you're running late
You won't catch the plane but you'll get on the next
And you'll fly first-class, trying to achieve
The American Dream while you're piling up debts
Man, relax

Life is perfect enough, perfect enough
Lord, it could be better, sometimes it's rough
But today is perfect enough

You should be proud of what you've done
Look how far you've come

It's all a matter of priority, keep up what you're doing
If it doesn't ruin the time that you spend
With your family, you are their rock
And they love when you walk through that door at the end
Of the day

Life is perfect enough, perfect enough
Lord, it could be better, sometimes it's rough
But today is perfect enough
