I've been dreaming, there's a place
Where the colours blow you away
Clear as crystal, bright as day
It was the most glorious place

In a garden full of life
You were by my side

Somewhere beautiful above the sky
Just as tears begin to fill my eyes
You just tell me with a smile
"If you don't cry then why should I?"

Then we walked down streets of gold
There beside a river of hope
Where the tree of healing grows
You said, "now it's time to let go"

I refused to understand
Then you took my hand

Somewhere beautiful above the sky
Just as tears begin to fill my eyes
You just look at me and smile
If you don't cry then why should I?

Somewhere beautiful beneath the sky
Just as tears begin to fill my eyes
I can think of you and smile
If you don't cry then why should I?
