It hasn't been the same, since that day,
it happened within a week ago, I'm sure,
When the turning point came,
and I fell madly in love with her.

Tell me, what does it take, to fall,
I guess not much, if you're falling in love.
I just want to know, what it takes for her to see,
that to me, she's my everything.
Everything, everything.

A dream so theoretical,
involving one boy, one girl.
No matter how long it takes,
I guess I'll wait.
I guess I'll wait.
I don't want to waste
the time it takes.

I hope she wants me around,
So I can kill that frown.
Oh, that frown—I'll kill it, bring it down.
