I have never been here on my own
it's pushing me off today
I can hear the clink in every bone
its pushing me off today
But I would never you up
For being that off today
I would never beat one up
For being that off today
Hope I never swim my rounds alone
There's always someone who knows me well
Hope I never run my lanes alone
There's always someone who knows too well
That I would never beat you up
For being that off today
I would never before
For being that off today

Hope I never run my lanes alone
There's always someone who knows too well
hope I never swim my rounds alone (I can hear them picking up the phone) there's always someone who knows to well
that I would never beat you up
for being that off today
I would never beat one up (for being that off today)
