(Gary Burr - Michael McDonald)

How many hearts find the answer
And how many learn what I've learned
That each chance at love is so precious
When it's gone it may never return.

With our eyes always on the horizon
We can miss what lies at our feet
For all of our hurry and hunger
Only love makes us complete
If the dreams of my life all came true
One by one but for you.

I'd still be waiting, wondering this
Why am I longing what have I missed
Give me the world without your love darling
I know that would not be enough, I'd still be waiting.

So, it really won't matter what I gain
Or what I might lose
It would all just be smoke and illusion
Nothing more if I didn't have you
If your love hadn't helped me to see
I know right where I would be.

I'd still be waiting, wondering this
why am I longing what have I missed
Give me the world without your love darling
I know that would not be enough, I'd still be waiting.

I'd still be waiting, wondering this
why am I longing what have I missed
Give me the world without your love darling
I know that would not be enough, I'd still be waiting...
