(Clarence D. Gill - Tony Laiolo)

I know a girl who lives in ol' Levi's and likes to go fishing with me
And I know a lady in sexy black satin who makes me go weak in the knees
One is a friend I can turn to, one is a woman I need Baby, you know who I mean.

Lady my love, you're soft as a whisper, hard as a honky
tonk band
Lady my love, you're rough as my whiskers, smooth to the touch of my hand Warm morning sunshine, hot midnight flame, it's all the same to my heart
Lady my love, lover my lady, I love both the women you are.

This morning I woke up and watched you beside me asleep like a sweet little girl Then I thought back to last night when you loved me so wise in the ways of the world I've always loved a good myst'ry you're one I'll never explain
There ain't one thing that I'd change.

Lady my love, you're soft as a whisper, hard as a honky
tonk band
Lady my love, you're rough as my whiskers, smooth to
the touch of my hand
Warm morning sunshine, hot midnight flame, it's all
the same to my heart
are.

are...
