Wake up all your dreams And show them to the door They're not wanted any more They're not needed any more

I don't think you know I don't think you care I don't think you wanna And you don't, and you don't

Pack up all your lies The oft repeated lines That you murmured while asleep That you've babbled while awake

I don't think you know I don't think you care I don't think you wanna And you don't, and you don't

I don't think you know I don't think you care I don't think you wanna And you don't, and you don't

I don't think you know
I don't think you care
I don't think you wanna
And you don't, and you don't
And you don't, and you don't
