Even though she's on my mind

Even though she's hard to find

Even though there's always something with you

Even though there's always something

Even though she's right on time

Even though she's always lying

Even though there's always something with you

Even though there's always something

I know we don't talk about it

I know that, that's true

I know we don't talk about it

I'm so scared that I'm losing you

Even Though she just stopped trying

Even Though I can't stop crying

Even Though there's always something with you

Even Though there's always something

Even Though there's always something with you

I know we don't talk about it

I know that, that's true

I know we don't talk about it

I'm so lonely away from you

Even Though

Even Though

Even Though there's always something with you

Even Though there's always something

Even Though there's always something with you
