

Oedipus Complex, The "Anywhere but Nowhere"

Visit "Anywhere but Nowhere" on MotoLyrics.com

Can't we dream one day these monochrome feelings
Part for something more
Cleaning up all the devices that we fed from Collections on the floors
What I've been living on it probably gives me cancer
Like the things I'm told from you
Been watching my life from afar through the parascope
From underneath these burning attires

If I could send myself away
To anywhere anyday
To somewhere no one's ever been
A trip to take nowhere again

Destination on my mind is where I'll meet you
Tangled in surreality
The red shades that coat my blue undertones
A brighter point of view
I said I'd grow up to never be heard from again
And now I want to offer up this course
To be the lone one in the area
Away, away from all the chores

If I could send myself away
To anywhere anyday
To somewhere no one's ever been
A trip to take nowhere again
I said I'd run from this refrain
The farthest I can get from here
And you'll never know about me again
When I get over the fear

Separated and so at peace I want to feel it
The ease of never having anything to worry for
