Verse 1

Little girl, grew up too fast,
Suddenly things changed in your world
Daddy, gone too soon,
Never got the time to see her be a woman.
Mother mother, so sad and so down,
Spending all her time making up for her grief.
Brother was too busy,
Fighting with himself in his teenage years

Chorus

I used to hate myself yeah, I used to hate my life
But now things will never be the same
I used to hate myself yeah I used to hate my life
But now I love what I became

Verse 2

At thirteen, a lake of male affection,
Girl needed to find a way to have some attention
So early, she gave her body
Gave away her virginity
Too young, she couldn't feel the pleasure,
She had scarred her intimacy

Chorus

I'm better today, on my way
Nobody knows which way to go
I don't know, you don't know
All I know is to be myself
