He's just a guy raised in all routine
Doesn't care much about a hype or scene
He just believes in his dreams they make him grow
And his friends say he is really convinced
That the world is one big show
And in school he's teachers know his independence
What makes sense he wants to know
But he can speak up and say no
That's the reason why they throw him out of school
But he will show

No need to know where things will go
Because he's got the guts to dream in stereo
He doesn't know which way he'll go
He doesn't care and that's his secret

So everytime he has to make a choice
Well then he just throws up a coin
All his friends planned out their future so perfect
Well he's not gonna join
He's too busy doing things he always wanted
It's his will, it gave him wings
Now he's gonna get it all
Not afraid he'll sometimes fall
He doesn't care at all!

No need to know where things will go
Because he's got the guts to dream in stereo
He doesn't know which way he'll go
He doesn't care and that's his secret he will show

(He doesn't care but won't deny
He's not that type that's gonna lie
About his own opinion just because it
Could be bad for him
He doesn't care he doesn't know
The time will learn which way he'll go)
He doesn't care at all!
