friend insurance by Of No Avail
three to one that not one single friend will stay forever.
call it needful exchange. you've got palls but also real friends:
they should never ever leave the spot but it happens
so much times, I'd say insane but people tell me that's the need for a new game.
that's where I pass, block the access.
friends are so precious I guess. I can't insure the fun,
the company, their helping hand. think about ten years
ago,
all those friends that you still know.
your contact now is based on "hi, hallo!"
and you both don't care you know.
Three to one that not one single friend will stay forever.
see them all come and go.
you've got palls but also real friends:
they should never ever leave the spot but it happens
too much times,
it's so insane. fuck that game.
can you realize some are just disguised?
not all your friends will really be there for you but for those who will.
you should never kill that friendship by indifference.
It's not something you get back easy.
that's where I pass, block the access.
friends are so precious I guess.
I can't insure the fun, the company, their helping hand.
think about ten years ago, all those friends that you still know.
your contact now is based on "hi, hallo!"
and you both don't care you know.
