It's so easy to provoke Calling every one a joke don't think I am a sitting duck
The sermon you deliver sucks

All you do is criticize try to convince us with your lies
I don't convert in any case
I spit it right back in your face!

You look down on us from up your pulpit
I try so hard to understand
But all the words you're throwing at me
Just fade like footprints in the sand

Bore us with your prophecies
(But) you won't get me on my knees
I'll conduct my own defence
I'll just ignore your ignorance

It won't matter what we do
Your arrogance will pull you trough
And all your fundamental rage
Will still be sounding from some stage

You look down on us from up your pulpit
I try so hard to understand
But all the words you're throwing at me
Just fade like footprints in the sand

Whose side are you on?
