

Off My Rocker

A Dark Devil in a gray haven freezes
Paralyzed in anothers embrace Blushing through her dreams of love and her urge for thrill
People once used to sing for her
About Friendship
About Heart
Now she's just a pretender
With the naked pudenda shrouded in leaves

In case we were ment to stay
We failed to integrate Standing on a deserted shore devoured by our conscience constant flame

You! Humanity, what are you bragging about You are what u always have been,
a decorated grave.
Burying sins in cloth of chastity
And an afloat self you persistantly condemn

In generations
We will be defamed
Gradually dissolved
Fallen Pretenders
