Every time she leaves him it cuts him like a knife

Every time he holds her close he knows the reasons why

Superboy met supergirl they learned to fly

In the night they find themselves up in the sky up in the sky

And every time she goes away there's something that she ought to say

And every time he holds her close there's something he wants to know

All the time he waited all the empty nights all the words he could not say the truth he realised superboy's got supergirl they've learned to fly and in the night they find themselves up in the sky up in the sky

cause every time she goes away there's something that she ought to say

that she ought to know yeah superboy loves supergirl and when that can't be in the sky he'll search for her where they are free free just to be

but she knows it
