My name was Marielle but you can call me Mary
You see, like the others I can't fade away
Half life(half now)...I'm a spirit now...
I have no home, no place where I can rest in peace

I feel an empathy with your soul
I see you're fallen deep down with Your fears...Have your dreams been killed by the pain?
Your tears are digging your own grave

And the daemon you hide killed the angel you got
He tried to bring you light but you fell into darkness
All the blood that you sweat, every drop that he dried
Everything is lost...You just let him cry...You just let him die...

Out there, stars...There are millions in the universe
They seem all the same but they are different
Their lights and their different colours
They stand, they're still< they die...Melting with infinity

Relieve the sorrow that you keep inside
Release what's left in you tonight
Escape from the branch of thoms in your heart
Before...Before it's just too late

And the daemon you hide killed the angel you got
He tried to bring you light but you fell into darkness
All the blood that you sweat, every drop that he dried
Everything is lost...You just let him cry...You just let him die...

I feel the sorrow you're keeping inside
I see what's left in you tonight
Escape from the wind branch of thoms in your heart
Before...Before it's just too late

And the daemon you hide killed the angel you got
He tried to bring you light but you fell into darkness
All the blood that you sweat, every drop that he dried Everything is lost...You just let him cry...You just let him...
