my skull rattles
with the trapped ammunition that entered three years ago last September.

i'll exit this building, take leave of your head, and you'll leave me for dead somewhere in the back of your mind.

i can't wait to be a shadow
i can't wait to be your memory
en synergy sin energy

. . .and in this room. . .
we structured convoys
to our goals "boys -- this shot, it's our one and --" only to find,
signs or no,
it was as though the blind had always led the blind

. . .now from this stake:
"don't persecute,"
i bear the match that starts conflagration you must concede
that when we screamed
we only preached it to the congregation.

(in these halls,. . .)
(. . .these four walls)

i can't wait to be a shadow.

look how far we've come on broken legs
