I'm blue, blue like a Monday morning

Raised up in a way that I can value

All the material things that I could ever really need don't matter

So many ways that I can thank you

But you know that I am here and no-one else in this world will matter

I'm blue, blue like a Monday morning

It's true, it's you that's got me yearning

For a love that will last forever

Wishing that somebody somewhere

Would break through these wrought iron doors and just smile

Because I'm blue

I can't get emote to try and tell you

All the love that I have Am I ever gonna make it happen?

So many ways that I can thank you

But you know that I'm here and no-one else in this world will matter

I'm blue, blue like Monday morning

It's true, it's you that's got me yearning

Because I'm blue. Nobody knows that I'm blue
