Over and over again
This cycle never really ends
I've fallen underneath
Through the hole that was placed beneath my feet
I'm burning from the flames that scream my name
It haunts me every single day
I am scorching from the torch
Which stains a mark onto my heart

It feels like I've been cut from the inside
Everything was taken away
Including life, yeah my life

Frequently you've been telling me
To stand my ground and rise up to my feet (my life)
To raise my head up high
Look at the problems of life
And stare at them straight in the eye (my life)
And every time I fall over again
I shouldn't forget to reach out when I need a hand (my life)
Cause you'll be there for me
To set this soul free
And breathe new life in me

What can I do to make things right?
Is it ever possible to change my own life?
Will I make a difference or give me confidence
To live through the obstacles of life
Is there any hope in this dark world?
Will these eyes ever see light?

It feels like I've been cut from the inside
Everything was taken away
Including life, yeah my life

Frequently you've been telling me
To stand my ground and rise up to my feet (my life)
To raise my head up high
Look at the problems of life
And stare at them straight in the eye (my life)

And every time I fall over again
I shouldn't forget to reach out when I need a hand (my life)
Cause you'll be there for me
To set this soul free
And breathe new life in me x2
