Well I never fell apart like that,
my heart sparkled and took off straight ahead.
Closing directions to senses I never trust again.
You looked away when I saw you stare,
You pushed your way through my veins into my head;
you were stuck in my brains.
Unconsciousness embraces my fears, you chase me in my dreams,
And all I saw was an extended sense of superstition,
it's time to leave, I won't be faced with any sad exhibitions.
I hope you will take my curiosity into account.
Envious dreams isn't what I long for anymore,
let's take him down was what my destiny shouted.
Someday I'll understand your amazing passion
to break my heart each time.
Over again.
