I was orderin' Wild Turkey she was drinkin' Blue
Moon
At a Lonely hearts club one night in late June
While the sun did slowly set
On me and that brunette
Yeah
She was lookin' like Sheryllin Fenn in Twin peaks
And the gloominess I'd been fightin' for weeks
All of a sudden flew
And the sun broke through

She turned my world upside down
Changed it all around
Against all odds this old heart began to pound
Just when I was through with love
Came an angel from above
Oh I know heaven must have made her
She's a love generator
Yeah I know heaven must have made her
She's a love generator

I had lost all faith in love, you see
And finally decided it was not for me
There was no way in the world
No matter what girl
No
I had made my plan for once and for all
To keep away and never get involved
When Cupid aimed the gun
I was back at square one

Solo

She was wakin' up feelings that I thought was dead
And the wildest thoughts started runnin' in my head
I could hear a choir sing
And weddingbells ring
Yeah
She was sawin' the seeds of love in me
And they were growin' big like Redwood trees
She could make flowers grow

In ten feet snow
