If you turn the lights out does it get better or worse in darkness do you become afraid and cry or are you happy that you can't see reality
or are you happy that you can't see reality

I always wake before I hit the floor if I didn't would I keep falling again and again will no one save me
sneak out the back door and float away your reality is safe from mine I will help you to escape from your bruised thoughts the key out's in your mind

When the light are awake do you see your own world are you less afraid when you know no ones there or more afraid because they aren't they aren't
or more afraid because they aren't they aren't

will no one save me
your reality is safe from mine

The twisting words in which you speak are the prayers of a tortured past trying to wash away your silence will these words allow your past to breath or will they crash into the sky into the sky

your reality is safe from mine

(Sneak out the back door and float away
