a million points of light ascending to the sky monuments in darkness
standing watch until the sun will rise of how we deified ourselves screaming to an emptiness what inspires in us this madness with our hands over our eyes claiming all of creation that our existence should be defined by a light that can't be seen by anyone

that our existence should be defined by a light that we can't see by a light that can't be seen

I can't, I can't see this all as progress
when we see ourselves as deities claim nature for ourselves how did we come this far? by our actions we betray the instincts in our race by our blindness and stupidity we kill everything we kill everything

can someone see our self destruction? are we reminding ourselves that our existence is so delicate that without this light we are no more that without this light we've made we are no more a million points of light standing watch ascending to the sky

until the sun will rise we torch the earth until it bleeds rain ashes from the sky just to make a light that no one can see we cut the earth until it bleeds

just to make a light
by our blindness and stupidity a million lights that no one can see?

a million points of light and in a thousand years what will be our legacy
