"Hear It"

Like a morning crow and his unwelcome song
Or a worn out broken record that keeps skipping along Mountains of instructions you keep piling on me Resound like a cacophonous symphony But I don't wanna hear it anymore
Priests and politicians pretend they're your friend
And police speak to you like you're children again
Blanket Statements cover you like a rug
And they tell me maybe I'm acting a little too smug
But I don't wanna hear it anymore Everyday we hear the secrets of life
Reduced to cheap jokes, poetry and friendly advice They'd rather see us all pusillanimous Absorbent in their chorus of correctness
But I don't wanna hear it anymore
