Years ago, in my mind but in my heart it's not so long I thought I knew what love was, I was oh so wrong found myself moving on.
I met a boy with a perfect face and smile, hardbody build.
My days were full of laughter nights were passion filled.
And I said to myself, there could be no one else.
He courted me and showered me with most expensive things bought bouquets of flowers, precious diamond rings and we had so much fun. So sure he was the one this love's for real. This is so much more than I thought it could never be. This love's for real I feel like all my hopes and dreams are flying high and free.
Soon I had found that love was so much more than giving into him, all he would ask me for seeing we stood on different moral ground just when I needed him the most, he'd never be around my love's for real.
I have given so much more than I ever received
my love's for real.
Never again will I trade love, for what I truly believe I met a man with a personality that really shines I pray this time he'll stay and that he's truly mine Cause he brings so much joy; into my world he promised me there would never be another in his life on bended knee he asked me if I would be his wife my battle I have won; I know he is the one this love's for real this is so much more than I thought it could ever be
this love's for real
I feel like all my hopes and dreams are flying high and free.
My love's for real
never again will I trade love for what I truly believe
