Do I look the same to you? 'Cause I don't feel so You know, everything must change as time goes by Though it feels like yesterday when we first met I feel I'm sinking deeper

Do you look the same to me? Well, I don't think so 'Cause you know everything must change as time goes by
Like the flowers that dry, locking inside Forever their beauty, beauty

And they said this feeling fades, it gets stronger everyday
And they say that beauty fades, you're more beautiful than ever
They said we'd drift away, we're still standing here
And it feels like every day's our anniversary

Well, I stumble through the dark and light a candle
And the path the wax will take, no one can know
And you said, it looked like snow or maybe clouds
And I think it looks like Heaven

So we make it into a ring and make a mold
And we melt above the flames, the whitest gold
When hot and cold collide, what's left in place
Is forever and ever

And they said our love would fade, it gets stronger
everyday
And they say that beauty fades, you're more beautiful
than ever
They said we'd drift away, we're still standing here
And it feels like every day's our anniversary

Some say, "Things worth having take some time
As they get older, they get better"

And they said our love would fade, it gets stronger
everyday
And they say that beauty fades, you're more beautiful
than ever

They said we'd drift away, we're still standing here
And it feels like every day's our anniversary

And they said our love would fade, it gets stronger
everyday
And they say that beauty fades, you're more beautiful
than ever
They said we'd drift away, well, as long as we're together
It feels like every day's our anniversary
