Imagine there's no hating, my mind is slowly escaping You're telling me that I'm dreaming, but still your thinking the same thing Imagine people living, uniting and co-existing You listening or would you rather be kotching
Watching watching your wide screen
Imagine no intruders, no wasting and no polluters No prostitutes rapists killers, gangsters rolling with shooters
Imagine no need for needles, crack dealers, hustlers or pushers
If Lucifer turned over and gave God all the answers
Imagine every race's colour combined hand in hand
If Martin Luther King Jr had died an old man
If the towers were still standing
No fighting imagine a brotherhood of man
One love and one understanding

Imagine John Lennon had never been shot
If he was here today imagine he listened to hip hop
And if not could he appreciate my message to you Imagine Adolph Hitler was born and raised a Jew There's no excuse, imagine living this world without pain
Imagine there was no shootings in schools like Dunblane
Imagine, Holly, Jessica and Damilola were saved
What type of world is this? Even kids are taken away Imagine no hate, imagine people living together
Imagine waking up to summer even if it's December Remember past tragedies, wishing the blood wasn't spilt
Imagine poppies never had to grow in Flanders fields

I'm the dreamer escaping my realitys
That's where I'd rather be away from any negativity You're calling me the dreamer, but that's where I belong
But looking back on it you'll see I'm not the only one I'm still the dreamer, floating with my head in the clouds

Slowly trying to find my way before I'm pulled back down
You're calling me the dreamer, you got your eyes wide shut
If I'm the dreamer then people really need to wake up

Imagine peace, imagine soldiers never being enlisted Forget the weapons, imagine Saddam never existed Words get twisted, imagine this world without lies
And no fights, imagine no bombings and people unite Imagine my rhyme's reality, the earth my flow Imagine there was no need for police on patrol Imagine no aids, imagine disease would just go Imagine cancer could be cured by taking paracetamol
I wanna go further back in to this life you believe Imagine Adam never took the apple of Eve
Imagine there was no religion just people who achieve Whatever god you pray to, we all came from one seed

I'm the dreamer escaping my realitys
That's where I'd rather be away from any negativity
You're calling me the dreamer, but that's where I
belong
But looking back on it you'll see I'm not the only one I'm still the dreamer, floating with my head in the clouds
Slowly trying to find my way before I'm pulled back
down
You're calling me the dreamer, you got your eyes wide
shut
If I'm the dreamer then people really need to wake up
