He sees what I'm lacking and he tells me without attacking my life
He sees what I'm needing and he gives me love without my pleading
I see where his worries lie and I help him to decide He sees what I'm missing that sometimes I need to be alone but sometimes I need him to listen

Like a hemisphere he surrounds me with a wisdom that astounds me
Like the horizon he draws my eye to him and he makes me see just how lonely I have been

He knows what I'm thinking without a sign without blinking my eyes
I know what he's asking in our love there ain't no masking no disguise
I know what he's after it's the truth and the laughter Why can't we see in ourselves all the beauty we see in everybody else

Like a hemisphere he surrounds me with a wisdom that
astounds me
Like the horizon he draws my eye to him and he makes me see
Like a radio he calls out to me in the middle of the night
Like a hemisphere he is perfectly clear and he makes me see just how lonely I have been

I don't wanna go through this life just getting by I want to fly
I don't wanna go through this life not asking why I need to know why we are here we are here together now
I don't wanna go through this life just to die Well you made me see just how lonely I have been

Like a hemisphere he surrounds me with a wisdom that
astounds me
Like the horizon he draws my eye to him and makes me see

Like a radio he calls out to me in the middle of the
night
Like a hemisphere he is perfectly clear and he makes me see just how lonely I have been
