

Pains of Being Pure at Heart, The "Anne with an E"

The things we used to do when the nightmare wouldn't end
turn up the sight of you and feel it all again

The posters on the wall that were our only friends
Their lives we never knew, but oh how we imagined

Let's go out tonight and do something that's wrong
cuz I don't feel alright when disaster's gone
Anne with an E you're everything to me

Take your sweater off and wear your spikes again cuz you can't get off on that medicine

Let's go out tonight and do something that's wrong
cuz I don't feel alright when disaster's gone We'll call in sick tomorrow and shake 'til we can't speak and know it won't get better, but still you wanna see our bodies fall apart and lose the will to breathe and fall asleep forever in perfect harmony
Anne with an E, you're everything to me
