Would you still love me
If sometimes I was all wrong
Would you still love me
Even if I couldn't hold on

Would you still love me
If I was always pulling away
Would you still know me
Just as much as you did yesterday

Would you still love me
If I was cold and become faded
Would you still love me
If I become lost and jaded

And would you keep loving me
If I turned and never believed
In a moment of helpless truth
Would you still shelter me

And would you still love me
If the grip becomes so loose
If I had to do something
That wasn't totally the truth

And would you still love me

For all and who that I am
If I was blind and I hurt you
Would you still believe that we can

And would you ever push me
If I hurt you mistakenly
Would you keep loving me
If accidentally I fell heavily

And would you still love me
If the sky was no longer blue
And in a moment of doubt
Would I be replaced with someone new

And would you still love me

For all and who that I am
Would you still love me
Unconditionally

And would you still love me
For all and who that I am
Would you still love me
Would you still believe that we can
