Hey, if you can hear me
Look at me directly and give me an answer
Is it because you've come to hate me
That you always avert your eyes?

That can't be, since you're always like that
You won't ever show me your true self
When I ask "Do you want this?" you'd say "I don't need that"
And when I say "Please tell me," you'd say "Not telling you"

Even so, if we're always together
I wonder if I'll be able to understand you a little?
Though it may take time
I still want to see your honest eyes

In the same way all atoms are attracted to each other
My heart will draw near yours
No matter where you are, it'll take me no time
To move to that very location

If I had to put a name
To the mysterious power operating between us
I can't put it into words very well
But if I really have to, then...
