Daylight comes in the nick of time
Shines some light into the darkest corners of her mind
All the world is, all the world is weighing down on you

Piece by piece, it all falls away All this beauty, all this magic there's nothing there If only love was enough, I could reach you, I would reach you

I know I'm not tired of you, but maybe you got tired of me
It seems like every little thing I do makes you pull yourself away
So I'm waiting for the sun, but you only see the grey
Oh no - won't you please come on home

Oh, I've been missing you, you got lost along the way Oh maybe you aren't lost; it's still in you some way
If only love was enough, I could reach you, I would
reach you

I know I'm not tired of you, but maybe you
got tired of me
It seems like every little thing I do makes you pull
yourself away
So I'm waiting for the sun, but you only see
the grey
Oh no - won't you please come on home

Seems like every little thing I do makes you pull yourself away
So I'm waiting for the sun, but you only see
the grey
Oh no - won't you please come on home

If only love was enough, I would reach you, I could reach you
