On that day long ago
When I told you to go
There were no hard feelings
Until you egged my house
You even stole my couch
you got away with my lucky fanny pouch
Oh yes this crossed the line
I knew now it was time
For my revenge

CHORUS:

On that Summer Saturday
A year from yesterday
When I was led astray
By hard feelings
It would have stayed that way
If I hadn't got my way
On that Summer Saturday

I crept into your house
As quiet as a mouse
You never saw me coming
With the hose in my hand
I struck one for the band
Your house would never be the same.
