Never thought that I could be anyone or anything,
Couldn't stand the rising of the sun,
But still I rose and walked the streets,
Too afraid to stop my heartbeat,
Even though I thought about it some,
All the things that used to be
So beautiful became empty,
And all I had was just the memory

CHORUS:

I thought I had died, I was alone,
'Til you found me here and brought me back home
I thought I had died, was caught in the flood,
'Til you lifted me up, out of my grave and into the sun

Maybe I'm the only one,
But I wonder if it's everyone,
Pain is part of being born,
Hope is more than just a dream,
And love is more than anything,
And I believe in kingdom come,
Victims or victories,
I was blind but now I see,
The world was made for more than tragedy
